INTRODUCTION

My father used to tell us children some of his experiences as a young man which we found most interesting. I remember a few of the details, but not enough to make a complete story. He told about cattle drives; he told of the winter when he was "Running" his cattle in the Davis Mountains; he told how he helped another rancher round up cattle in the Mescalero and the problems they had with the natives when they got to the Rio Grande because the cattle would over-run the little cultivated patches of feed and vegetables; there were no fences; he told of the "round-ups" they had every spring. My father was 43 years old when I was born, and by the time I was old enough to appreciate fully the importance and value of these stories, he has passed on. I decided that I would try to write down some of my experiences to pass on to my descendants. I kept a record of my travels in France during War I, following that I started making notes of various experiences—I would write a paragraph or two, and put these notes in a box. About 1975 I started arranging these stories, and now (1978) I have nearly completed the job. As I look back on this project it has been lots of fun, and I have enjoyed it very much. I have overlooked a number of items which will come to mind later that I will wish I had included; I have tried to relate those things that I thought were of interest, but when I take a serious look at what I have written, I realize that a lot of it is very trivial.

What dramatic changes have taken place in my life time. In Sweetwater, where I was born and raised, we had no running water, no telephones, no electric lights; I well remember the first automobile I ever saw; of course there were no airplanes, no radio, and no TV. Today we have put men on the moon, and brought them back safely to earth. What a wonderful experience to have lived in this period.

William Taylor Jr. was a private in the militia of Edgefield Co., N. C. in 1776, which was afterwards incorporated in the 10th Regiment N. C. Continental Line under Col. Abraham Shepherd of Dobbs Co., and served in that Regiment from Aug. 12, 1777 to June 1778.

This family of Taylors were members of the old Kenneuke Baptist Church in Edgecombe Co., N. C., which is said to have been made up of ardent patriots. The father, William Taylor, died an old man in 1783 having been high sheriff from 1756 to 1783.

D. E. Thomas enlisted as a private in Co. F 17th La. Infantry on September 30, 1861, Camp Moore, LA., and served until May 23, 1862. He re-enlisted at Edwards Depot, Miss., May 23, 1862, he was in the siege of Vicksburg, and was captured at Vicksburg July 4, 1863, and paroled at Shreveport, LA., June 17, 1863.

ISRAEL SHELL (TUCK) FOCHT

My father was born at the Water Works near Lebanon, PA. July 10, 1851. His father was a blacksmith for the Union Canal Co.

any idea where this station was—and got some ice, and filled up the box, and sent it to Sweetwater collect. We knew that one of the restaurants in Sweetwater had fresh fish shipped to it in barrels, and that the express company added ice to the barrels to keep the fish fresh; we thought they would add ice to our box. But they did not. A couple of days later when the box arrived in Sweetwater all of the ice had melted, and the fish had spoiled, since my father had to pay the cold charges, he was very unhappy with us.

It was late that summer Arthur Hance and I decided to go fishing on the Concho River near Miles. As we were planning this trip one of the old friends of the family gave us this advice: "Roost High." I have always remembered this, and my experience and observation, has justified this. These Texas streams, and in many other areas as well, can get on high rises in a very short time. Many people have been caught by a wall of water that comes down the stream from rains that fell higher up the stream. We spent several days on that trip, caught a lot of fish, and had a good time.

PUSH BALL

The University Administration felt that something had to be introduced to replace the tradition of the sophomore contest making the freshmen pull the cannon back to Clark Field after the firing of the 21 salutes on March 2nd, so, in the early spring of 1910 they bought a push ball for a contest between the freshmen and the sophomores on March 2nd. I have a faint recollection that two or three other schools had push ball contests on their campuses at that time; I have not heard of a push ball contest on any campus in many years. The ball they got for the University was round like a basketball; it was six feet in diameter; it had a rubber bladder on the inside, and a heavy leather cover for the outside which was almost as heavy as sole leather. This ball was pumped up tight, and put in the center of

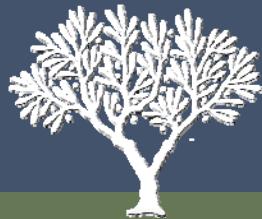

The beginning of a push ball contest between the freshmen and the sophomores in 1912.

A field almost as large as a football field. The freshmen were lined up on one side about 13 feet apart, and the sophomore men lined up on the other side the same distance from the ball. At the signal the contestants ran towards the ball as fast as they could, and tried to push the ball across the opponents' line. The boys who reached the ball first did not realize that scores of other boys would be right behind them, and the crush around the ball would be extremely great. There were two hundred or more boys on each side; this was quite a mob in the field. As long as the ball was on the ground neither side was able to make much progress. Finally they got the ball up in the air above the heads of the crowd, and then they were able to support the ball with their uplifted hands, then they could move it a little better. The boys did get to Push Ball. A contest between the freshmen and sophomores. Frequently the ball would get up in the air, and it would be moved by the uplifted arms and hands of the contestants. And it is hard to tell which side is which. This contest was held on the original Clark Field; Taylor Hall now sits in about the middle of Clark Field. Picture is taken looking to the southeast. 1913.
